Dear Michael,

Got a 100-year-old historic bell to move? The Riverworks Complex of Watertown, MA did, and they knew to trust Olympia Moving & Storage with the job.

The Riverworks Complex, the former headquarters for Boston Scientific, was recently transformed into 200,000 sq. ft. of Class A office space. Their first major tenant, The Alzheimer's Association of New England, chose Olympia Moving & Storage to move them into their new space on the 2nd floor.

According to office manager Kate Robinson, "It was a pleasure to work with such professionals. Your guys were, to the man, respectful, pleasant and hardworking." They were so impressed with our services that they hired us to assist with their two biggest charity events: the Walk to End Alzheimer's and the Memory Ride (see sidebar).

News of good service travels fast, and Education Resource Strategies, another new Riverworks tenant, also hired Olympia to move them into their new 11,000 sq. ft. office and remove and dispose of furniture in their old space.

Riverworks' property management company, Farley White, noticed Olympia's hard work and professionalism and hired us to relocate a historic bell, which had been located in the complex's bell tower for over 100 years, to the facility's main lobby.

You may not have any bells, but rest assured we can handle your next move. Olympia Moving & Storage has been in business since 1993, and maintains offices in Boston, Massachusetts and Washington, D.C. We have a great team of dedicated professionals, and will do everything within our power to exceed your expectations.

On crew member Mitch at the Walk to End Alzheimer's:

"After we were packed and he was about to leave he was so thankful to be a part of this event and said to me 'I believe in what you do so I am happy to help in any way I can.' And clearly that was evident in this picture."
